Partner organisations

The French hosting organization : Bokra Sawa Culture & Education non-formelle.

The Bokra Sawa (tomorrow together) association, based in Marseille, works in the field of non-formal education for Euro-Mediterranean youth and aims to promote common values and to fight against stereotypes and, consequently, to bring the two Mediterranean shores closer. In addition, Bokra Sawa aims to provide Euro-Mediterranean young people with new ways to reflect and discuss the world in which they live by providing them with tools and knowledges to express their ideas.

The Tunisian sending organization : Fanni Raghman Anni

The Fanni Raghman Anni Association (FRA) is a youth-led, non-governmental organization funded since 2011. FRA promotes innovative youth activism through the arts, particularly in areas affected by poverty and marginalized neighborhoods . FRA is committed, through creative and artistic expressions, to strengthening social awareness and knowledge of human rights issues, making prevention against violent extremism a priority.

The Italian sending organization : Atelier Europeo

Atelier Europeo (AE) is a non-profit organization established in Brescia (Italy) on May 9, 2013. The main objectives of AE are to foster the development of active European citizenship, to promote a European culture and opportunities offered by the EU and its funding programs and to encourage the transnational mobility of EU citizens, in particular young people.

The Egyptian sending organisation : Torraha

Torraha in Arabic means fishing net. It was founded in Alexandria in 2013 in order to enhance a social dialogue and increase the local community participation. Their projects deal with women and children empowerment using the Fine and Performing Arts and handicrafts, as well as the development of artistic and cultural skills of young people. Torraha works on promoting and strengthening the rights of marginalised populations, through art and culture.

Volunteer's Mission

Presentation

The Bokra Sawa association will welcome from February 2019 three young volunteers in European Voluntary Service of Tunisian, Egyptian and Italian nationality. The volunteer (s) in European Voluntary Service will carry out their mission within the association Bokra Sawa, located in Marseille, France, for a period of 12 months. Their main mission will be to work on the theme of gender equality and develop an educational tool to raise public awareness and disseminate information on this topic to the widest possible audience.

Through documentation and exchange with the general public, the theme of gender equality will be approached in a participatory manner, involving the Marseille public in the production of a photo report and interviews, in order to designing an educational toolkit to help combat gender inequalities, and a traveling photo exhibition to increase project visibility.

Tasks and activities

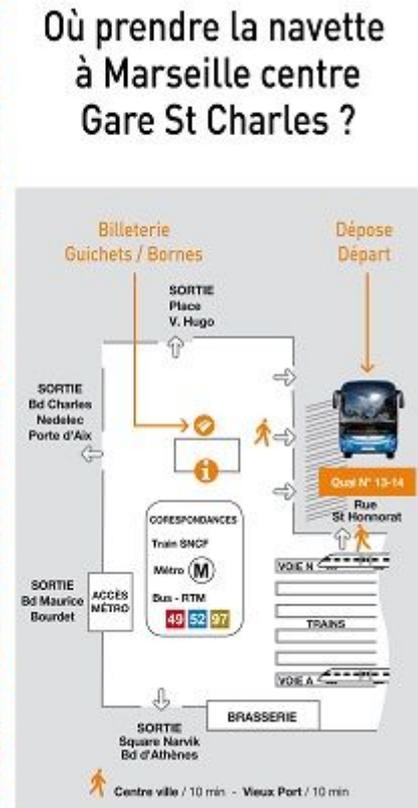

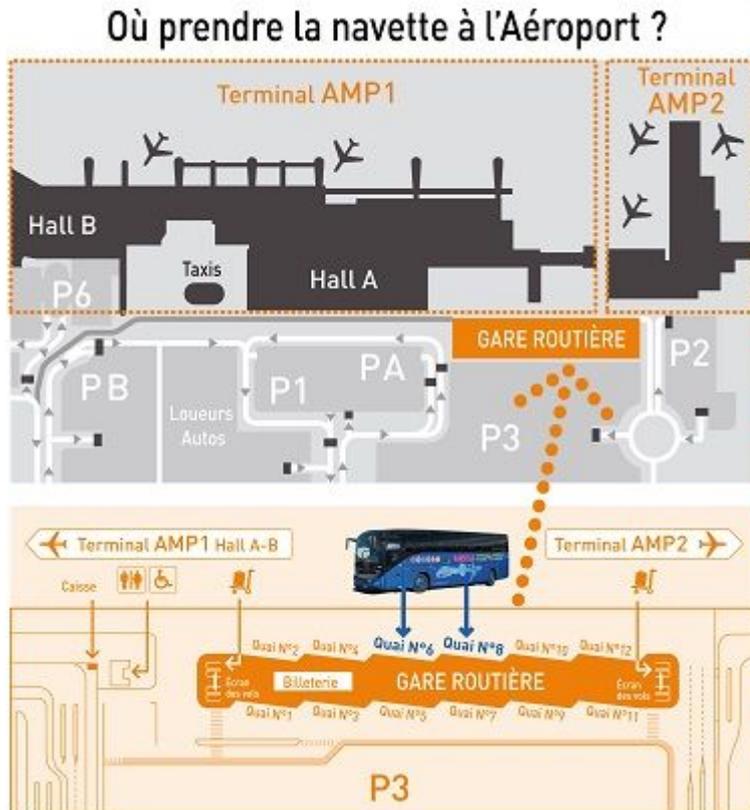

In addition to carrying out his project, the volunteer will help support the project manager in the implementation of cultural awareness activities. Thus, it will take care of the missions of creation of new activities of sensitization on the topics on which we will work.

In sum, the volunteer will be led to:

- Animate cultural awareness workshops for young audiences;
- Communicate around the events and projects of the association;
- Animate cultural events with local partners ;
- Participate in major animation and awareness projects at annual events such as: Science Fair or Heritage Days;
- Participate in hosting projects of foreign partners;
- Meet with local partners to propose our activities;
- Communicate around the project;
- Raise awareness about non-formal education.
